"The success of the students is our mission."

Prof. Dr. Krasae Chanawongse

PCTC, is a private vocational education institution founded by Prof. Dr. Krasae Chanawongse, with the vision and philosophy of that "Education of the rural people is the future of Thailand." Under the Office of the Vocational Education Commission, PCTC opened in Education Year 1980, teaching at the vocation

For the management of efficient teaching and learning at PCTC, faculty members are provided with training courses to improve their efficiency in teaching, conducting classroom research, creating media and teaching and learning material, measurement and assessment principles... all necessary for effective teaching, so that students are able to graduate in the time-frame scheduled for the duration of their course.

By embracing the principle that education is a combination of appreciation, knowledge, sportsmanship, and integrity to create social virtues that make successful graduates (who find success in seeking employment of choice), the faculty from which they graduate can be proud. Through its education management philosophy and mission commitment, combined with its strategic and annual operations plans approved by the College Board, the PCTC is well accepted both nationally and internationally. As part of international education collaboration networking, PCTC has international student and academic exchange programs with the Nagasaki Wesleyan University, the Tokiwa University, and the Aoyama Japanese Language School in Japan; the Baguio University in the Philippines; and the Jin Hong Vocational College, Xishuangbanna Region in the Democratic People's Republic of China (DPRC). Currently the PCTC provides scholarships for students from Japan, DPRC, Cambodia, and Laos to provide opportunities for Thai and foreign students to mutually exchange language and culture. PCTC fosters and promotes the development of student ethical conduct and professionalism through encouraging the practice of social customs activities (Wai Kru; Buddhist Lent Candle Festival; Father's Day Tributes...); and fosters student personality growth, student health enhancement, as well as student sportsmanship benevolence (fairness, ethics, respect, self-control, courage, persistence, and above all; fellowship), through arranging annual sports events. These events emphasizes team work, public consciousness, as well as raising awareness of defeat, winning, and forgiveness; all human qualities that are highly desirable in Thai society. PCTC student sporting achievements have helped establish the reputation of the institution and the nation, such as the achievements of Mr. Sarayuth Chaikumdee, and Cho Ha Lah; who are Thai national football team players.

PCTC Football Team Results:

- 5 times holders of the HRH Princess Sirindhorn's trophy in the Chumpae football competition
- 3 times holder of the HRH Princess Sirindhorn's trophy in the Muang Phon football completion

In line with the concept of the Founder, that "The school is part of the community and the community is part of the school", the PCTC has developed into an institute of learning for students, staff, and the community. The environmental development within the precincts of the PCTC in terms of ambience, cleanliness, and hygiene, makes it appropriate and conducive for learning.

PCTC desires to be an institution of youth and human resource development, empowering individuals to be of good character, appropriately skilled for entry level of their chosen career, and have basic effective leadership competencies based on timeless universal principles and values, so that they can be ready and willing to be important players in national development. In this important national economic, social, and political development era in Thailand, the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC), in particular, is a national priority that education institutions must attend to deliver the maximum benefit for students. In development activities, to effectively achieve national and AEC objectives and goals, human resource development is a key factor. Through the effective performance and participation of staff and the dedication of students and parents, PCTC can be a key institution in the development of human resources in response to Thailand's development needs.
